

Instructions for chefs

Congratulations! You've been invited by your good friend

.....
to be one of the three special guest chefs at a MasterChuck! at Home dinner party to be held at

.....
on .....

You will be preparing the ..... course.

I'll be providing a kitchen for you to work in, along with all the usual sorts of kitchen utensils, crockery, cutlery and all that sort of thing, and the other dinner party guests will bring along plenty of wine and nibbles to make sure the evening is a fun time for everyone.

Including yourself, there will be ..... people altogether.

You'll need to create your meal in advance, and bring along ingredients and anything else you might need to prepare your meal on the day. If there's anything you need me to get ready for you, or any special details you need to know, get in touch with me at .....

The name of the dish that you are going to cook has already been decided using a random menu generation programme that has been developed for the game by those clever people at Ready, Steady, Chuck! If you don't know what that's all about I suggest you log on to www.readysteadychuck.co.uk as soon as you can to find out!

There's a copy of the menu of our dinner party attached to this information. Your creation should be the best possible meal you can devise that fits the description the menu has generated.

When everyone's had the meal, the best course will be named as the winner, and then if we're still hungry we'll be sending out for a pizza.

Look forward to seeing you!
